

Adopt a Seat at the Opera House

MAKE HISTORY

You can make history by adding your own history to that of the McPherson Opera House by adopting an auditorium seat.

Although many of the 488 seats in the beautifully restored auditorium have been adopted, there are still seats available at every price level.

The brass-colored plaques on the armrests—which look beautiful against the dark-stained wood—can memorialize your company, a spouse or family member, someone else who has been important in your life, or anything at all.

The plaque (see the full-sized example) has space enough for a long comment, or you can keep it brief if you want. Of the many seats adopted so far, the inscriptions have run the gamut.

A SEAT AT EVERY PRICE LEVEL

Seat adoptions come in three levels: $1,000, $500, $350. The price varies according to location and adopted seats are assigned on a first-come, first-serve basis. It's fair to say, though, that given the intimacy of the Opera House auditorium, every seat is a good seat. Keep in mind that adopting a seat is not the same as reserving a seat. For an actual performance, you can reserve any seat in the house, including the one you adopted, if it's still available.

A DREAM COME TRUE

The Opera House, for those who supported its construction, is a dream come true. For those who have gotten to know it by attending a show, taking a class in the Mary Anderson Arts Center, or renting space, it's a place where new memories are being made.

YOU CAN MAKE MEMORIES TOO

By adopting a seat, you are adding your own permanent memory to one of the most memorable buildings in Kansas.

Please use the form on the other side to adopt your seat.
